

West Chester, Pa.,
State Normal School,
Apr. 11, 1894.

To the Superintendent of the Mint, Philadelphia.

Dear Sir,

I beg leave
to intrude upon you
and perhaps take some of your precious time.

None of us here at school,
that is our class, seem to be able to tell how the money in the Mint reaches the hands of the people, and I was commissioned to find out.

Our teachers always tell us to go headquarters, so knowing that you would be the right person to ask, I take the liberty of asking you to tell me how to explain
it.

If you will do this,
you will oblige me
very much.

Yours respectfully.
Alex. H. S. Taggart.

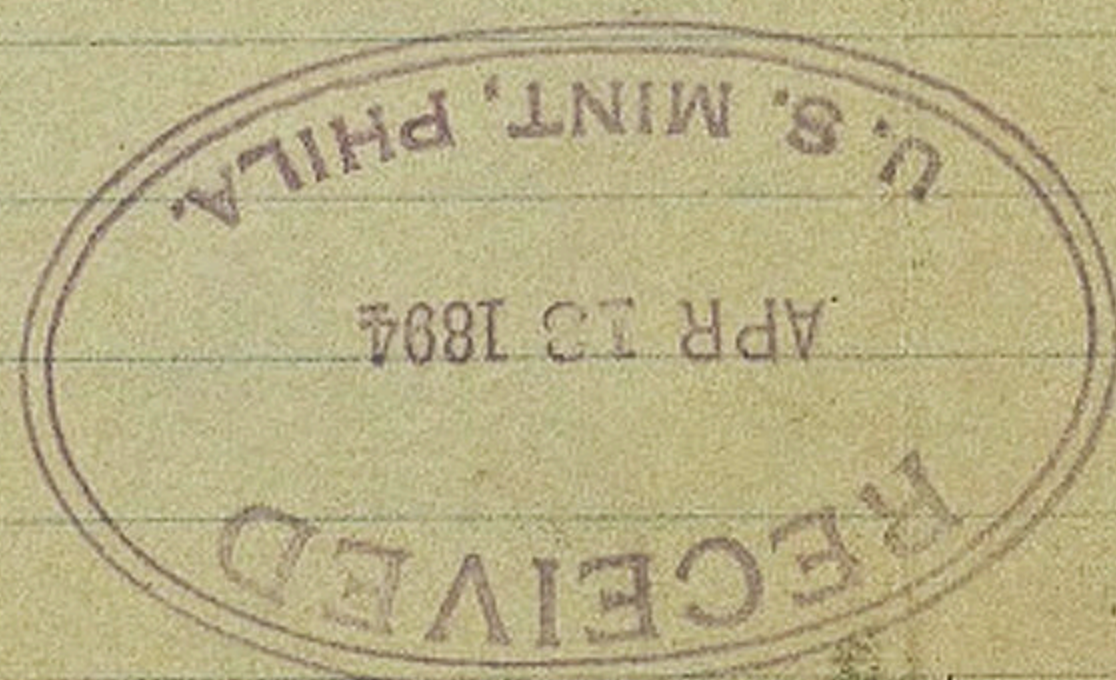

West-Chester, Pa.

April 11, 1894

Also, H. S. Taggart-

Asks how the money in the Mint-reaches the people.

NARA RG104, Entry 1, Box 185

[Abstract:] Asks how the money in the Mint reaches the people.

West Chester, Pa.
State Normal School,
April 11, 1894

To the Superintendent of the Mint Philadelphia.

Dear Sir,

I beg leave to intrude upon your and perhaps take some of your precious time.

None of us here at school, that is our class, seem to be able to tell how the money in the Mint reaches the hands of the people, and I was commissioned to find out. Our teachers always tell us to go headquarters, so knowing that you would be the right person to ask, I take the liberty of asking you to tell me how to explain it.

If you will do this, you will oblige me very much.

Yours respectfully,
Alex. H.S. Taggart